The Congressional Budget Office (CBO) is a small nonpartisan agency that provides economic and budgetary analysis to the Congress. The Microeconomic Studies Division is seeking an Assistant Analyst to provide the division’s senior analysts in the Employment and Income Security Unit with statistical analyses, graphics, literature reviews, and other research assistance. Assistant Analysts typically pursue professional or graduate degrees in fields such as economics, public policy, medicine, or law following an appointment not to exceed three years.

The Employment and Income Security Unit provides the Congress with analyses of policy issues related to employment, income security, and education. Recently completed studies include examinations of the unemployment insurance system in the context of the recent recession, trends in spending and participation for major means-tested programs, the role of small firms in the labor market, the compensation of federal and private sector employees, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, and the Social Security Disability Insurance Program.

Qualifications
Candidates should have a bachelor’s degree in economics or a related discipline. The position requires a person who can work well with a number of senior staff members, take initiative to gather data to address policy questions, and complete assignments in a timely manner. Candidates should have strong quantitative, writing, and computer skills (experience with STATA is a plus), and a desire to work on issues of current legislative interest to the Congress.

Salary and Benefits
Salary range is $37,000 - $43,000, and will be commensurate with education and related experience. CBO offers excellent benefits and an appealing work environment.

How to Apply
Please submit a cover letter, résumé, a brief writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three (3) references online at www.cbo.gov/careers. This position is governed by the Veterans Employment Opportunities Act, as made applicable by the Congressional Accountability Act, as amended.

Contact
Nancy Fahey, Washington, DC, 202-226-2628, careers@cbo.gov