

COURSES FROM OTHER DEPARTMENTS/SCHOOLS FOR WHICH EC CONCENTRATION AND SECONDARY FIELD CREDIT WILL BE GRANTED

NOTE: Courses require instructor approval. Some of these courses are intended for Master's students - beware the degree of difficulty! To ensure a cross-registered course counts towards the Ec concentration, students need to fill out a petition.¹

⁹ Starting with the academic year 2018-19, this course no longer counts as a theory pre-req.

¹⁰ Another version of this course is being offered, but it only meets 75 mins/week and is not taught by David Kane – that version does NOT earn economics concentration or secondary field credit.

¹¹ Starting with the academic year 2018-19, this course no longer counts as a theory pre-req.

¹³ Used to be Economics of Labor Market Policies, with George Borjas

¹⁴ Starting with academic year 202021, this course no longer counts as a theory pre-req

¹⁵ This course is approved for Ec credit in 2020-21 as a Covid exception
