Arvind Subramanian, the outgoing Chief Economic Adviser to the Government of India and now teaching at HKS, would like to hire a research assistant. Tasks would include doing research on India and economic development and designing a course on "Convergence After World War II" for the Spring Semester. STATA proficiency (or equivalent skills) would be highly desirable. Interested students should email arvind_subramanian@hks.harvard.edu.